Walker Trail Loop

Multi-Use Trail

The Walker Trail Loop is a conglomeration of three separate trail networks. Shingobee Trail Connection connects the Heartland Trail from the City of Walker to the Paul Bunyan State Trail where it enters the Chippewa National Forest. It is open to non-motorized uses in summer and snowmobiles in winter.

Trail users can expect to see multiple ecosystems that are typical of North Central Minnesota and others that are unique to the area. Walker Trail Loop circles much of the Shingobee Creek watershed which consists of gorgeous forested hills.

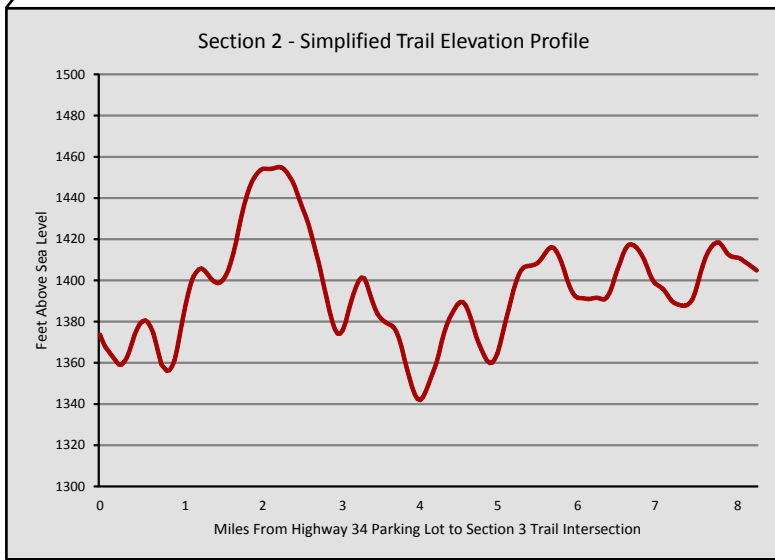

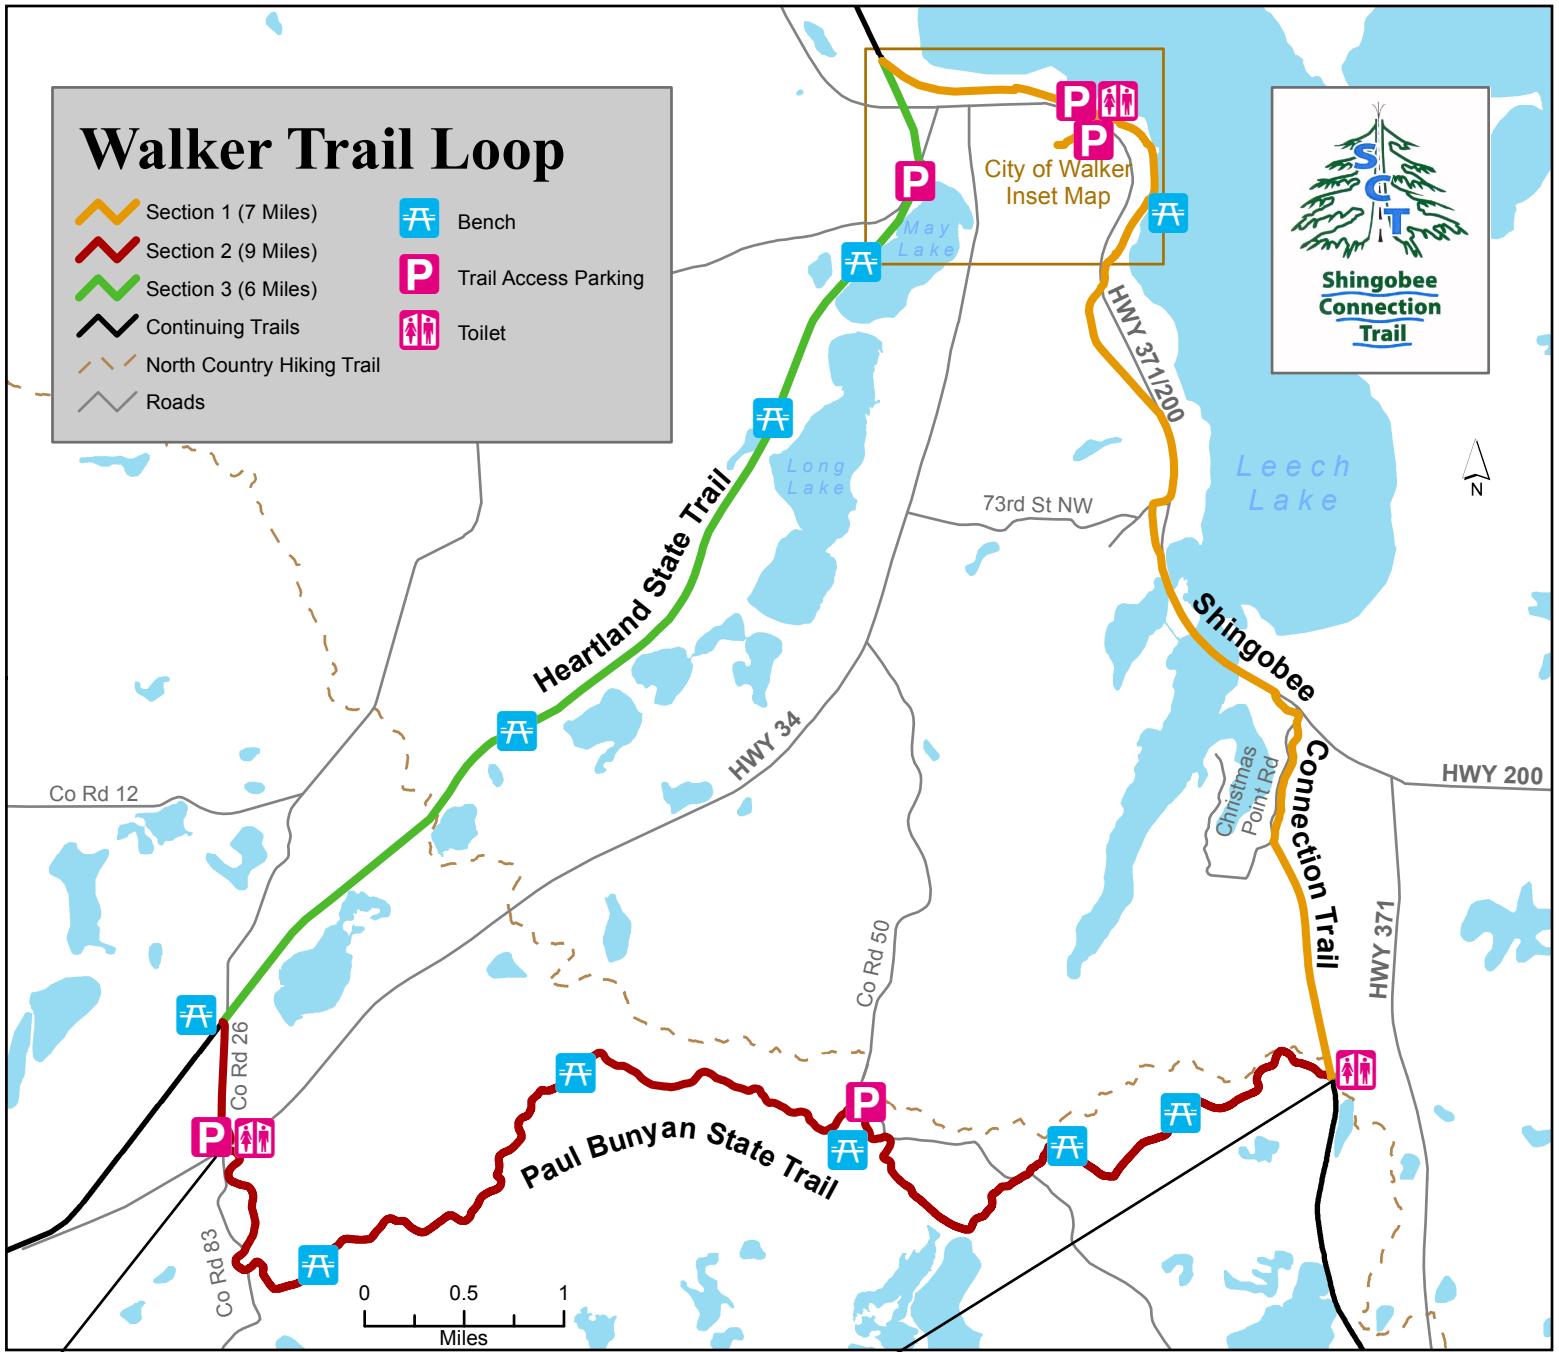

Eagles, loons, and deer are typical wildlife that may be viewed from the trail as it meanders next to lakes and through beautiful forests.
